

When at the close of his address to the jury in the Haywood case Clarence Darrow said, "For thirty years I have been trying my best efforts to the cause of labor," there must have been more than one man in the court room who mentally added, "For a considerable time."

Mr. Darrow has grown gray and rich also in the service of labor, and no man living has been able to coin more money out of popularity with working-men than he. A good lawyer and an effective pleader, he probably earns all that he gets, but he will not be thoroughly understood unless the fact is borne in mind that he invariably gets all that he earns.

Thirty years ago Mr. Darrow was not so much a servant of labor as he was an ambitious young lawyer, keenly intent on making his way in the world. He did as other men do, and without reproach to himself. He held office, he accepted a partnership in a firm of corporation lawyers, and for a time he was exclusively a corporation lawyer himself.

Originally a democrat of the conventional sort, Mr. Darrow fell under the influence of John Peter Altgeld, and from that strange but in some respects admirable character received an impulse which changed his perspective and revolutionized his opinions upon practically every phase of society and government. As is often the case with discipleship, the man who sat at the feet of Governor Altgeld outran his master.

There is a certain comity among lawyers which enables them with impunity to assail law, courts and government. Men have been hanged in Chicago for utterances in this vein which were much more circumspect than those which in carefully prepared books bear Mr. Darrow's name.

An infidel, a misanthrope, a revolutionist, a hater of the rich, a contemner of the educated and the polite, a hopeless cynic, a man whose soul revolts at every manifestation of intelligent self-interest in others and one who evidently has lost faith in his fellows, Mr. Darrow nevertheless cherishes the idea that he is the champion of the oppressed, and he has persuaded a good many people to think likewise.

Young lawyers will find some phases of this man's career which are worthy of imitation, but more of them against which they should turn their faces like flint. He is able and he is eloquent, but he is otherwise a solecism. A household, a community, a state or a nation of Darrows would be impossible. —New York World.

Wisconsin's Annual Agricultural Exhibit at Milwaukee, Sept. 9 to 13 Many New Attractions Offered.

The Wisconsin State Fair, the greatest of all great State Fairs, will be held at Milwaukee September 9 to 13, opening on Monday and closing on Friday.

Wisconsin people have a wonderful treat in store for them at the fair this year. They will be amazed at the improvements and additions that have been made on the grounds since the last fair. Among the buildings that will attract attention is the new cattle barn which will be the largest and finest on any fair grounds in the United States. It will permit the housing of all cattle exhibits under one roof and afford the best possible opportunity for visitors to examine the stock.

The premiums offered this year show a great advance over former years. For the products of the farm a total of $25,500 is offered and for the speed events, for which the Wisconsin State Fair is becoming so famous, prizes aggregating $27,500 are offered. Every department promises to be full almost to overflowing and additional buildings have been erected to accommodate the exhibitors who come from all parts of the state.

In connection with the fair there has been provided a great variety of entertainment features for each afternoon and evening. The evening show at the fair has come to be one of the distinct features of the great annual exhibit and the state board has this year contracted for a mammoth spectacular fireworks event, entitled "The Siege of Moscow," which will exceed anything ever before attempted at the state fair. The presentation of this spectacle involves the employment of some two hundred people, the erection of a large amount of stage setting and the discharge of thousands of dollars worth of fireworks each evening.

There will be an abundance of music; more than sixteen bands from different cities in the state have been engaged for the week of the fair. Each afternoon a varied program of vaudeville events will be given before the grandstand between the racing heats which promise splendid entertainment. These vaudeville acts will be repeated at the evening show.

The Wisconsin State Fair is the great event of the year for the entire commonwealth of Wisconsin and should be attended by the greatest number of people possible from all sections of the state, particularly the farming communities, as the fair is the annual exhibit of their efforts on the farm and displays all their output of the cereals, fruits, vegetables, cattle, horses, hogs, sheep, the dairy, cheese factories and every product identified with agriculture.

Remember the dates, Sept. 9-13, the second week of the month, and make plans to attend the fair and be present during the entire week.

Met Their Waterloo.

The base ball team representing the local lodge of Elks that went to Waupaca, last Wednesday noon, met a thorough defeat at the hands of the K. P. nine of that city, and scarcely a whisper has been heard from any of them since they returned. The home team made nineteen scores in eight innings, while the boys from here only had three to their credit at the end of the ninth. The Post says:

With the exception of one inning, yesterday's game between the Stevens Point K. P. team, and the Waupaca K. P. team, was very close and interesting, but in that one inning the visitors went into the air, and before the baloon reached solid ground, eleven scores had been made. The final score was 19 to 3 in favor of Waupaca. A fair sized crowd witnessed the game.

One Way of Making Return.

The average American sheriff or other police officer, in making a return of a writ of arrest, follows a different rule than that employed by the Moros, particularly if the defendant be killed in resisting arrest. Here the Datto must "see the goods," so it is the custom to sever the head from the trunk and return it with the writ.

Recently a case of this kind occurred on the Island of Basilan, where Datto Gabino attempted to make an arrest of a gang of pirates, killing two in the fight which ensued. Knowing that he would not believe one of his deputies if they failed to bring in the head of the man alleged to have been killed while resisting arrest, Datto Gabino naturally doubted if the Governor would believe him under similar circumstances. As evidence of the truth of his return, he brought to Zamboanga two heads. Being round, and inconvenient to carry, holes were slit in the ears and strips of ratan used to make handles.

Consternation reigned in the Governor's office when these heads were presented to him as evidence that the Datto had not made a false return on the writ of arrest.

The first case of this kind happened on the Island of Pilas where Maharajah Turabin, like David of old, sought to make way with a certain Moro Urah who possessed a very likely-looking wife. Ejan, a lieutenant, was told to attend to the matter. Shortly after this Urah was encountered by Ejan and left for dead. This modern Bathsheba did not take kindly to "David" Turabin's intentions respecting her, so she escaped with her wounded husband and made her way to Zamboanga, where the wounded man was placed in the military hospital.

A warrant was issued and served on Ejan, the modern Joab, but in effecting the arrest the man was killed. His head was severed and brought in. As a means of identification it was sent to the hospital and rolled from a sack on to the floor in front of the wounded man. When Urah saw the head of his enemy a smile stole over his countenance which can never be wholly obliterated if he lives forever.

Announcements of the marriage of Robert P. Kraus and Miss Gertrude Mac Winch, both of Marshfield, have been received. The ceremony took place at the Catholic parsonage in that city, last Thursday afternoon, and was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, the young couple leaving later on an extended wedding tour. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Kraus, of Marshfield, the father being vice president of the First National bank in this city, and the bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Winch, all being among the most respected residents of our neighboring city. Mr. Kraus, the groom, is a manager for the Connor Lumber Co. at Stratford, where they will reside. A long life, replete with happiness, is wished them.

Stevens Point Sports Visit Wausau.

Wausau Herald: John Garlie, Peter Schreiner, Irving Nelson and Roy Hagan of Stevens Point were among the Stevens Point sports in this city Thursday. Mr. Garlie twirled for the Wausau league team last year and this year is doing the same for the Stevens Point city team. Schreiner played short with the Oshkosh league team last season and part of this season. He had to quit the team on account of a lame leg, he said.

Pleasantly Entertained.

At the C. B. Baker home, 620 Elk street, last Thursday, seventy-five lady friends were entertained by Mrs. Baker and Mrs. F. L. Dille at the first of a series of 5 o'clock teas to be given by these ladies. The newly remodeled home, which is now most attractive on the interior, was artistically decorated with sweet peas and nasturtiums, and everything about seemed to have a welcome for those present. Vocal selections were rendered by Mrs. Wood, of St. Louis, recitations by Mrs. Stemen and instrumental numbers by Mrs. Hutter. Those who assisted at the tables were Mesdames C. E. Edwards, N. A. Week, E. H. Joy, O. O. Little, H. D. Boston, Jennie Cadman, N. Gross, P. W. Clark, F. G. Minnebeck, F. H. Murray and the Misses Maybelle Little, Blanche Dafeo, Alta Lawrence and Margery Smith.

Among the Amateurs.

That Stevens Point has as many local organizations of base ball teams as any city of its population in the country, is not questioned, and they are formed of boys of all ages, names and nationalities, as to their ancestors, but all good Americans, who enjoy the national game and "play ball" for all there is in it. They are also strong on club names, but those who adopt the strongest names are not always the most expert players. Friday the Cubs defeated the Badgers by a score of 4 to 2, and the same day the Normals were beaten by the Canbustlers in a score of 10 to 4. The line-up of the latter teams were: Canbustlers, W. Older c, Chenevert p, Wiesner 1b, Hagan 2b, G. Older 3b, Cook ss, Menzel rf, Fallon cf, H. Ule lf. The Normals were R. Berens c, L. Park p, W. O'Connell 1b, N. Glennon 2b, Charlesworth 3b, Leonard ss, Friday rf, Gray cf, Docka lf.

Thursday afternoon the Cubs were defeated by the local White Sox, score 11 to 3. Marx the White Sox pitcher, struck out 10 men, and Carpenter for the Cubs, struck out 4. The line-up: White Sox—Winkler c, S. Marx p, Cierpe 1b, Viertel ss, M. Marx 2b, F. Hautzinger 3b, R. Hautzinger lf, Fisher cf, Schmidt rf. Cubs—E. Wollenschlager c, Carpenter p, G. Newby 1b, R. Also agents for the celebrated Round Oak furnace. tf

It is safe to say that every resident of our neighboring city of Wausau is a "booster" for their town. And they have good reason to be, as business in every line appears to be thriving, the numerous factories are running to full capacity, laborers and mechanics are employed at good wages. At one time this season it is said there were no less than 187 buildings under construction, a large majority being dwellings, but at present there is scarcely a vacant house to be seen. The street railway built there this season has served to give Wausau a much more metropolitan appearance and at the same time has tended to greatly increase land values near the outskirts of town. The car company is now selling eight tickets for 25 cents, good for rides on its line between 6 and 7 o'clock in the morning and the same hours in the evening, and in consequence laborers may get to and from their work for a fraction more than six cents per day.

Wausau contains an exceptionally large number of wealthy people, among whom are several former residents of Stevens Point and Portage county. Many others from this section have prospered business interests there or are engaged at remunerative occupations. While they have a very kindly feeling for the old home city or county each and all of them aver that their present place of residence is "all right."

Opportunity to Make Money.

I wish to dispose of the complete right to manufacture and sell, selling my formula to one person or firm. Great opportunity for some one. WRINKLES AND WHAT CAUSES THEM

Chicago, March 27, 1907.

E. Burnham, Chicago, Ill.:

Dear Sir—I desire to fulfill my promise to you, which was made last October, namely, that if you would improve my complexion by removing crow's-feet, wrinkles and discolored complexion, I would give you my photograph and testimonial.

The inclosed picture, which was taken last Fall, shows my condition at that time. The inclosed picture, taken February 25th, shows my condition at the present time. I desire to state that you have not only removed the wrinkles and crow's-feet, but have put my skin in a first-class, youthful condition, of which I am very proud. The fact is that my complexion is the envy of my friends, and I cannot say too much for your course of treatments for beautifying women. You certainly do all you claim and your remedies are perfection. I recommend them to my friends.

Trusting this letter will fulfill my promise to you and be all that you require, I remain,

Yours very truly,

Mrs. Thelma Orr

Hotel Wychmere, 18th and Indiana Avenue.

"Wrinkles," the little word that causes a shudder to every woman and most men, are caused more by carelessness and neglect than by years. We all know the young person who makes crosses by lifting the eyebrows and by smiling so continuously, also the person who frowns and squints, and the one who from ill health and poorly nourished skin shows the lines crossing the face in every direction. Such people may all take heart, because by the use of E. Burnham's wonderful skin food such lines may and surely will be obliterated.

It is unnecessary today for any one to carry these telltale marks.

A course of treatment as arranged by E. Burnham will positively remove wrinkles, all out the sunken cheeks, remove pimples and blackheads, and restore any face to its youthful contour and complexion. These treatments with the different articles are illustrated and explained in a little booklet which is published by E. BURNHAM, which makes it so plain that any lady can use these toilet articles with equally good success in the privacy of her own home as if she had visited Burnham's Beautifying Parlors and taken a course of treatments in this great establishment.

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliancy vanish like the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the cheek of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate woman's organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and form at once witness to the fact in renewed comeliness. Nearly a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. Made wholly of those native, American, medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

For nursing mothers, or for those broken-down in health by too frequent bearing of children, also for the expectant mothers, to prepare the system for the coming of baby and making its advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as "Favorite Prescription." It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve-nicely adapted to woman's delicate system by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments.

Animal Peculiarities.

A herd of wild Asian buffaloes will charge any foe, even a tiger, to save the life of one of their number that has been wounded. Elephants, baboons and other animals will do the same thing in a wild state.

On the other hand, monkeys have been known to fall upon one of their number that is ill and drown him, possibly as an act of mercy. Similarly wolves destroy one of the pack that becomes helpless.

If an otter is trapped, his brother otters will run around him all night, showing the utmost concern.

A writer in the London Spectator states that he has seen sparrows in groups discussing and lamenting when one of their number had fallen into a trap. Next day, when a robin was caught, the sparrows paid no attention. He adds that he had seen a big pig try to help a smaller one through a hole in the fence piling by pulling at its head.

Chinese Music.

The Chinese have eight instruments for making their ritual music—the bell, the flute, the drum, the sonorous stone, the fife, the plume, the shield and the ax. The last three make no music, but are used as decoration or emblem in the musical ceremonies and are enumerated as musical instruments. In every ceremony there are always two instruments of each kind, sometimes as many as four or six, never an odd number, in order to emphasize the duality of the Chinese people. For instance, one drum announces the beginning of the music, and its mate strikes the last note; one bell calls, and its counterpart answers.

Why He Felt Happy.

"Vernon told me this morning," related the lady with the cold blue eye, "that he passed the tree where two years ago he carved your initials and his own and encircled them with a heart. He says he felt so glad he almost danced for joy!"

"Ah," said the tall brunette anxiously, "then he must still love me, after all! Did he tell you why he felt so happy?"

"Yes, dear. He said some men were cutting the tree down!"

Organs are to be supplied to British warships carrying chaplains. Four new cruisers are to have them at once. It is thought that the organ will give a more impressive setting to the daily services on board ship than the accompaniment of the ship's band.

John Thomas Dean, who has died at Peterborough, England, at the age of eighty-five, was the last of the post-boys connected with that city. In his time he performed many notable riding feats, on one occasion winning a wager for riding eighty miles in eight hours.

GERMAN GLEANINGS.

According to the latest figures, the population of the German empire now exceeds 60,000,000.

Germany exports more than 3,000,000,000 lead pencils every twelve months. They are shipped to foreign countries at the rate of over 10,000,000 a day, counting six days to the week.

Horseflesh is generally advertised in the German newspapers, and most cities in the empire have at least one market which makes it a specialty, maintaining that it has a higher percentage of nourishment than beef, veal, mutton or pork.

Less than 10 per cent of the emigrants who sailed from German ports last year were natives of the German empire. The vast majority came by railroad from Russia, Austria, Hungary and other countries south and east of Germany.

NEW YORK CITY.

New York city women have more pet dogs in proportion to the population than any other city in the world excepting Paris.

New York hospital records show that there is an average of a man killed or seriously injured every week on each dock of the city.

New York city has a smaller proportion of inhabitants born within its borders than any other city in the world. Brooklyn borough has the most and Manhattan the least.

Liberty street, in New York city, has been so known since the days of the Revolution. Before that it was Crown street, which favored entirely too much of royalty to suit the patriots, so the name had to go with kingly rule.—New York Herald.

A MAN'S PLAINT.

Invitations by Telephone Opposed by Member of Stern Sex.

"There should be a law to keep people from asking one by telephone to go places," growled the man. "It is a very difficult thing for me to prevaricate on my feet. If it weren't for the presence of lovely woman I shouldn't have said 'prevaricate.'"

"Has anything happened recently to bring forth this philippic?" asked the woman delicately.

"Yes," replied her companion, still in a growl, "I have just been sand-bugged into making an engagement to go sailing. If there is anything in the world I particularly dislike, it is sailing; beastly sport, particularly in uncertain weather like this."

"I have never gone anywhere on a sailboat that we haven't been either becalmed or drenched."

"I should think that any one as fertile of excuses as I have found you to be could have managed to get out of accepting such an invitation."

"I could have if it hadn't been for that invention of the evil one, the telephone. Tell you how it was. The other day I was called up over the phone by a girl with a mighty sweet voice. I didn't recognize it in the least. 'Is that you, Mr. Smith?' the voice asked. 'I replied that it was I. 'What are you going to do on Saturday?' inquired the voice."

"Nothing," I replied before I thought. "Isn't that delightful!" said the voice. "Then you will go with us on a sailing trip, won't you?"

"Who is this?" I asked, my caution asserting itself too late.

"Then she spoke her name, and by all the little fishes it was that of a girl whom I especially dislike. But what could I do? If I refused, then I should make an enemy of her for life. There will be no one in the party who will be in the least interesting to me, and so I have let myself in for about as bad a day as my worst enemy could desire for me."

"Now, I should like to see a law passed making invitations by telephone a felony to be punished by imprisonment, and I think it should be legally enacted also that no woman or man may preface an invitation by saying what are you going to do on such and such a day and thus cutting off all hope of retreat for the victim."

"It is a low down thing to do," assented the woman absently, "but of course there is always a way out of it."

"How? Women are ingenious things, but not even one of that slippery sex could get out of a definite engagement, could she?"

"Of course. She would have a headache at the last moment. Why don't you do that or else send a note by messenger to say that you have been called out of town on important business?"

"I could not do it," declared the man. "After I have promised, and the party is made up and my hostess is depending on me, I could not be so beastly mean as to disappoint her—I couldn't really. That is a feminine trick; it isn't masculine."

"Oh, isn't it?" scoffed the woman as she placed a pillow at her back. "Well, you would think it was masculine if you were a hostess during the season."

BUYING OLD FIDDLES.

Many Fine Instruments Have Been Picked Up Cheap.

Great numbers of fine old violins and violoncellos that come into the high class market of London are procured through the medium of advertisements inserted in obscure country papers and especially those of ancient cathedral cities.

Of course few of the fiddles thus obtained are veritable masterpieces, but a great many of them are fine examples of early English and foreign makers, and they are often bought for ridiculously small prices by a group of experts, who have brought the business to a lucrative system. Many a struggling family of long descent, in some out of the way part of the country, happens to see in the one country newspaper of the week that good prices are given for old fiddles, and some long forgotten instrument in a lumber room or put away on a shelf suddenly comes to mind.

Correspondence follows. The dealer sends a deposit in order that some fiddle spoken of may be sent to him and examined, and he usually replies that the instrument sent is dilapidated and but so-so generally, but that he is willing to give 20 shillings or £2 for it. In a great many cases the offer is accepted offhand, and in this way most of the finest fiddles extant of the second class come into the hands of dealers. Only lately a cello that came from a Shropshire farm at the price of £2 sold the same day to a west end dealer for nearly £100.

One of the most shrewd and respected of all these dealers was until a year or two ago a humble member of the orchestra of a London suburban theater. He began to advertise in remote papers to the greatest limits of his scanty wages and is now one of the most extensive and prosperous dealers in the trade.—London Tit-Bits

THE SEA HEDGEHOG.

It Will Swallow Air Until It Swells Into Invulnerability.

Of fishes a large number are protected from hostile attack by a covering of prickles. By far the most curious examples are the globefishes or "sea hedgehogs" of the Atlantic and Indo-Pacific oceans. The extreme length of the globefish is something less than two feet. It has thick lips and goggle eyes, which give it the appearance of a good natured countryman. Courage it seems to lack, and one might suppose that such a simpleton would fall an easy prey to the first shark or dogfish it encountered. Yet the globefish is able to take care of itself. It never under any circumstances attacks the enemy, yet is always ready to receive him in a suitable manner should he provoke hostilities.

Let us suppose that a shoal of globefishes is swimming tranquilly in the clear waters when it is suddenly surprised by a hungry shark. Of course the little fellows scuttle hither and thither in uncontrollable alarm. But the shark, poisoning himself upon his powerful tail, leisurely singles out one of the fleeing globefishes and sets out in pursuit. Now, although the globefish is a good swimmer, it is no match for the shark. The chase is in every way unequal and can have but one ending. Within a few minutes of its commencement the shark must overtake the globefish. But the quarry is well aware of its danger. It makes a bee line for the surface and as soon as it gets there begins to take in great gulps of air.

Then a strange thing happens. The fish that only a moment before was thin and small begins to grow stouter and stouter until, like the frog in the fable, it seems in danger of bursting. It stops inflating itself, however, just in time to avert this catastrophe. But its skin has become as taut as a drum-head, and the whole of its body is covered with sharp, erect prickles. It has become a sea hedgehog, and the hungry shark which comes surging through the water dares not touch it, but turns tail in search of something more eatable. Of course the globefish was covered with prickles all the time, but in periods of tranquillity these lie comfortably along its sides, just as do those of the hedgehog. Unlike its land prototype, however, the sea hedgehog is unprovided with a special muscle for erecting its prickles, so when danger threatens it has recourse to the mechanical method of inflating the whole body with air or with water if it cannot reach the surface quickly.—Scientific American.

SOME BABY DON'TS.

Don't rock babies; it injures the brain.

Don't tease babies; it will make them cross.

Don't trot babies; it disturbs the whole system.

Don't romp with babies; it excites the brain too much.

Don't dress babies stylishly; it is cruel to adorn a rose.

Don't wake babies up to show them; they need all the sleep they can get.

Don't let too many strangers handle babies; it will spoil their disposition.

Don't put too many clothes on babies in hot weather; it will cause prickly heat.

Don't forget to give cool water often; it is the only thing to quench thirst and ward off fever.

Don't put long clothes on any baby; the weight has killed dozens of babies. Twenty-eight inches is long enough for comfort.—Pearson's Weekly.

From Out the Grave.

In the little village of Tewin, Hertfordshire, England, there are five large trees growing out of a single grave, and thereby hangs a curious story. On the slab that marks the grave was carved the inscription: "Here lieth inter'd the body of the Right Honorable Lady Anne Grimestone, wife of Sir Samuel Grimestone, Bart., of Gohambury, in Hertfordshire, daughter of the late Right Honorable the Earl of Thanet, who departed this life Nov. 22, 1713, in the 42nd year of her age."

The village story says that Lady Grimestone, persisting in a lifelong denial of the existence of a God, on her deathbed declared in answer to the exhortations of her friends that if in the other world she found that there was indeed a God the trees would grow out of her grave. The woman died and was buried. Shortly after the interment the five trees should be seen to appear, growing constantly until they split the masonry and wrecked the railing about the tomb.—New York Tribune.

Family Division.

Friend—So that is your little boy? He looks very intelligent. Proud Mamma—Just as I was at his age. My daughter, now, is more like her father.—Nos Loisirs.

The father's virtue is the child's best inheritance.—Chinese Proverb.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

Lingerie waists of valenciennes and cluny lace and all kinds of sheer stuffs intended to be worn with cloth skirts have soft belts and collars like the material of the waist.

For a fancy workbasket secure a small basket with double lids. Line the basket with pretty pieces of silk of any desired colors. On the under side of the lid make fastenings for small scissors, pins, bodkins, stiletos, etc.

One of the difficulties that the amateur dressmaker has to encounter is the finishing of the skirt made from cloth or similar material. To get the proper result the edge of the skirt should be bound with soft silk seam binding, then turned under to the depth of the hem. Making an turn after the manner of the ordinary hem means an unsightly ridge when the skirt is pressed.

"I beg your pardon, sir, but I'm going to ask you if your daughter would mind not playing on the piano for the next two weeks?"

"May I ask, sir, the reason for this extraordinary request?"

"Well, you see, my son wishes to get a good start with the flute."—New York Life.

PISTACHIO FOR GARNISHING.

Green of the Kernels Gives Pleasing Effect to Dishes.

Chopped pistachio nuts are much used for the decoration of many dishes. Pine nuts may also be used. The green of the pistachio is especially pleasing. They are used on little savory biscuits to pass with especial courses at luncheon.

Half a hot baking powder biscuit, spread with potted meat and something chopped to give a bit of color to the surface, such as parsley or chives, is served with bouillon.

A novel anchovy toast for a final touch at dinner after the sweet dessert may be made like this: Set a soup plate over boiling water and in it put a tablespoonful of butter. Let the butter melt before adding the beaten yolks of three raw eggs. Add enough anchovy sauce to color these somewhat, but not a deeper shade than salmon, else the saltiness will be too pronounced. While this is being done some one should be toasting four slices of bread, which must be dipped on both sides in the sauce. Serve as hot as possible.

If preferred, the toast may be well soaked in the sauce and then put in the oven until crisp again.

CASH FOR Soldiers' Additional Homestead Rights. HOMESTEAD ENTRIES made on or before June 22, 1874, by Soldiers (or their widows) of the Civil War, for less than 160 acres, entitles the Soldier or his widow or heirs to sell his additional right. This means CASH to not only the Soldier or his widow, but the Soldier's legal heirs, which means daughters, sons, mothers, fathers, cousins, or NEXT of KIN of the Soldier. Get busy right now and ascertain whether some of YOUR relatives who served in the Federal Army or Navy in the War of 1861-65, made a Homestead Entry on or before June 22, 1874, for less than 160 acres. There are hundreds of valid claims which will entitle the legal owners to thousands of dollars if the facts are promptly reported. During 1864 and 1865 many Homestead applications were made for Soldiers while in the service, through agents who called upon the Soldier, collected the required fees and forwarded the application to the local land office, and the Receiver issued his receipt. These receipts were sometimes delivered, and in some instances were not. Entries made in this manner entitle the Soldier or his heirs to an additional right, no matter whether final proof was made or not. Talk to Soldiers, their widows, daughters, sons or other legal heirs, about this class of claims. Come in and talk it over with THE GAZETTE, Stevens Point, Wis.

That Grand Rapids has some of the best people on earth within its corporate limits, is known by every resident of the Wisconsin river valley who is acquainted in that city, and many of these are no doubt base ball fans, "who have true sporting blood in their veins," but they are not the ones complained of at the recent visit of the local ball team to that place—not the fellows who threw mud, sticks and stones at the umpire or struck a little defenceless boy across the back with a club. It is a pleasure to note that these latter individuals have been sent to the woods, or dumped into the raging waters of the Wisconsin river, and if they are never allowed to return when a ball game is played there, peace and good will will be restored between Stevens Point and Grand Rapids players, rooters and fans, and all will be happy henceforth and forever.

B. R. Goggins, of Grand Rapids, will not serve as chairman of the railroad commission to succeed John Barnes, of Rhinelander, Mr. Goggins having declined the appointment made by Gov. Davidson, preferring to continue the practice of law and reside in the handsome new home which he recently erected in our neighboring city.

The vacancy has been filled by the appointment of John H. Roemer, of Milwaukee, an able attorney and a man who was highly endorsed for the position. Mr. Roemer is also a Democrat in politics and Gov. Davidson has shown excellent judgment in making the commission non-partisan as nearly as possible, it being composed of one Democrat and two Republicans.

In connection with the appointment that he did not accept, Mr. Goggins has received more kind and generous words from the press of the state, we venture to say, than most any other man who had been called upon to serve in an official capacity, the newspapers of Wisconsin being a unit in his endorsement. Mr. Goggins, however, was not a candidate for the position, and after a brief consideration deemed it wise and for his best interests to decline.

Special Notice to the Ladies of Stevens Point.

The H. D. McCulloch Co., leading dealers in this city, at great expense to themselves and E. Burnham, the largest toilet goods manufacturer in the world, succeeded in securing the agency as well as a demonstrator from E. Burnham's celebrated beautifying parlors, to teach the ladies of Stevens Point how to use E. Burnham's Toilet Requisites.

They are also giving away an illustrated booklet which teaches the ladies how to use these different preparations in the privacy of their own homes with equally as good success as if they visited the celebrated parlors of E. Burnham in Chicago.

This booklet, "How to be Beautiful," should be in the hands of every lady, and the ladies of Stevens Point should not miss this opportunity which is offered them through Miss Phillips how to remove wrinkles, crow's-feet, blackheads, pimples, moth patches, discolored and dark skin, through the use of these celebrated toilet requisites.

E. Burnham's demonstrator will give out two thousand samples of the different preparations commencing Monday morning, Aug. 5th, and at the same time will demonstrate privately on five or six ladies each morning while she is at the H. D. McCulloch store.

She will absolutely remove any of the above mentioned defects free of charge.

A Vegetable Diet.

"Do vegetables feed the brain sufficiently?" is a question often asked. To this many a brain worker will reply, "No." So with them it is a question of brains versus beauty. Would you rather be beautiful with little brains or brainy and ugly? That is something for each individual to settle alone. Ruskin tried vegetarianism for three years and finally gave it up, directing that all work during that time be destroyed. Gladstone tried it three days and gave it up. Bismarck wanted to try it, but never did. King Edward thinks it good, but not for himself. Many statesmen have followed it for awhile, but few have stuck to it. But from a pretty girl's standpoint it clears the complexion and does a great many other things. It is a good diet if followed reasonably.

Care of Brooms.

Brooms dipped for a few minutes in boiling suds once a week will last much longer than they otherwise would.

They should immediately afterward be plunged into cold water to stiffen the straw. This weekly bath is an excellent thing for it very thoroughly cleans this dust gathering implement. If a housekeeper will take the trouble occasionally to clip the edges of the straws, the cleansing powers will be improved. This is because constant use sharpens the ends, and they do not gather the dust as well as when square, their first condition.

Virginia Recipe For Curing Ham.

Put the ham into pickle made by putting into one and one-half gallons of water one-half pound of brown sugar, one-half ounce of saltpeter and two and one-quarter pounds of salt. Boil this mixture for half an hour, skimming frequently; then set aside to cool and pour over the ham. Leave for two weeks, remove the ham, wash it in fresh water, dip it, still wet, in bran and coat thickly with it. Now take to the smokehouse and hang, hook end down, to smoke from hickory chips and sawdust for four weeks. Brush off the bran, wrap in brown paper and hang up until needed.

Worth Knowing.

To remove a tight finger ring pass the end of a piece of fine twine under the ring and wind it slowly around the finger joint. Then take hold of the lower end of the string beneath the ring and begin to slowly unwind upward, when the ring will gradually move along the finger toward the tip of the finger and come off.

Baked Tomatoes.

Wipe firm tomatoes, cut a little piece from the top of each, put into this a round of American cheese and lay a bit of butter on top. Dust with salt and pepper, set aside by side in a roasting pan, pour a little salted water or weak stock about the base of the tomatoes and bake until tender, then transfer carefully to a hot dish.

Sea salt dissolved in water is an excellent application for all sore tones to the throat. During the first few weeks it may be a rigid solution, but its coldness should be gradually increased. The final routine should consist of an ordinary cold bath in the morning and sponging the neck with cold sea salt solution at night.

The Call of the Dime Novel.

Between the writer and his constituents there was a bond of affection which incited him to make them glad to be alive. In the mind of every healthy boy there is romance. For that boy's entertainment the producer of dime fiction strewed romance through farm, mining camp and city street. Out of his surroundings, however sordid, the boy was lifted. He became to himself the center of the universe. At the particular spot on the globe on which he stood all the parallels and the meridians converged. In no more intense a degree than this did exaltation ever come to the Count of Monte Cristo—the world was his. What was Edmund Dantes' palfrey $20,000,000 to the vast treasures, physical and spiritual, spread out by Osborn before "Plucky Paul, the Boy Prospector," and his tens of thousands or hundreds of thousands of readers?—C. M. Harvey in Atlantic.

The Backward Moor.

There is no education as we understand it among the Moors. There are no clocks, and it is estimated by one who knew that not 15 per cent of the population are able to reckon the time of day. As the sun crosses the meridian at seventeen minutes past 12 a flag is run up on the tower of the principal mosque, and immediately other flags appear upon the towers of the other mosques throughout the city. This is noon. At half past 1 another flag is run up, and at sunset the evening flag is fired. This is the extent of the Moorish idea of time. Only a few of the better class have books or can read or write. The mails are carried by runners who go from Tangier to Fez in two days. They carry a loaf of coarse wheaten bread, which, together with an occasional drink of buttermilk, serves as their only sustenance.—Harold F. Sheets in Outing Magazine.

How to Treat Meringue.

To prevent meringue on cream pie from becoming watery keep in the kitchen about an hour after browning. If set in a cold place at once, it will fall and be watery.

The father's virtue is the child's best inheritance.—Chinese Proverb.

How About the Boy?

The little home safes are greater favorites than ever, and our present supply will enable us to furnish them promptly to all applicants.

One of them would be a splendid thing for that boy of yours, for it would speedily teach him that dimes make dollars, an important fact that it sometimes requires years to grasp.

If he is ever to amount to anything, he must learn to be thrifty and saving, for those who get rich from speculation and miracles are few indeed.

From your own experience you know he cannot begin too early in life, and it is your duty to educate him along these lines, as well as to send him to school.

Come in and see us about it. They cost you nothing, and a dollar will start his account.

After a little fracas at the fair grounds, one week ago last Sunday, Jas. A. Hubbard, of Bancroft, had John Donahue, a special policeman, arrested on the charge of assault. The case was called for trial in Justice Carpenter's court, last Monday, but an adjournment was taken until next Tuesday, the 13th inst., an unlucky day for some one.
B. R. Hutchinson writes from Bancroft to correct an error on base ball reports sent to the Milwaukee Sentinel a few days ago. Therein it was stated that the Plainfield team won a game from Waupaca, in which ten innings were played, the score being 1 to 0 in favor of Plainfield. The team was from Bancroft, he says, every member being a Bancroft boy, and they want the credit that is due them.
Misses Mary and Tena Warshak returned home on last evening's train from Chicago, where the latter young lady had been visiting her uncles during the past month. Mary spent a year in the great city, being employed in one of the wholesale millinery houses, but resigned her position and will remain here until next spring at least. Both girls will again be employed at Miss Frost's fishing fly factory.
Rev. John A. Stemen left for Hazelhurst this morning for a week's outing at the M. E. Means summer resort, and also at Minocqua. Next week he will spend at Endeavor. Rev. R. B. Norton, president of the Northwestern Collegiate Institute at Sherry, will preach at the Presbyterian church next Sunday, and it is expected that Rev. Mr. Ayers, who is a guest at the McDill residence, will occupy the pulpit the following Sunday.
Dr. and Mrs. D. A. Taylor, of Bangor, Miss Laura Whitrock, of Chicago, Miss Grace Parker, of Grand Rapids, and Dr. McMartin, of Chicago, arrived in the city last Saturday for a visit at the home of Mrs. W. F. Parker, mother of the ladies, on Normal avenue. Miss Whitrock has been engaged in the publication of a magazine, High School Life, in Chicago, for some time and recently disposed of the same. The party went down to the Waupaca lakes, Monday afternoon, in the Blake auto car for a brief outing.

A NOVEL HONEYMOON

It Was Spent Hunting Polar Bears, Lions and Elephants.

THE "ARCTIC BRIDE'S" NERVE

Colonel and Mrs. Max C. Fleischmann and Their Adventures in the Far North and in the Jungles of Africa. Unique Trophies of a Bridal Tour.

MRS. MAX C. FLEISCHMANN of Cincinnati, the "Arctic Bride," is home again after four months of big game hunting in the jungles of east Africa. Colonel Fleischmann and his bride made a honeymoon trip last year to the arctic regions, where they passed several months in hunting the interesting game of the polar regions. Mrs. Fleischmann, who is as good a shot as her husband and quite as enthusiastic for the sport, shot and killed 104 seals, 30 reindeer, 1 blue fox and 90 specimens of birds, including the rare king eider.

The arctic trip was so enjoyable that the young couple announced their purpose either to make a voyage to the same regions this year or to penetrate the African jungles with similar intentions against big game. They chose the latter expedition. Landing at Mombasa in midwinter, they engaged an escort of sixty-five natives and went into the interior, where very few white women ever set foot. Mrs. Fleischmann's costume of high boots and short skirt was a continual wonder to the natives. The fair huntress also wore a head covering something like a waterproof bathing cap to protect her head from the pesky insects abounding in the jungle. Colonel Fleischmann had his hair clipped close to prevent the same unwelcome species from taking free lodgings in his hair.

For seven weeks the party camped out in the wild interior of the continent. Their tents and other camping paraphernalia and supplies had been shipped from London to Mombasa and were transported overland by the blacks.

The game killed during the hunt was even more interesting than that shot in the arctic. It included three lions, three African buffaloes, a rhinoceros and many antelopes. Mrs. Fleischmann brought down a number of the antelopes. The colonel tried hard to get an elephant, but was disappointed. They caught a small lion cub, which, with the heads, horns and other trophies of the hunt, they shipped to America. During their journey they took hundreds of photographs, many of which are of highly novel subjects.

Mrs. Fleischmann captured a baby antelope only a few days old and became much attached to the animal. She fed it herself all the way up the Red sea and across the Mediterranean, and it is reported that the brave Diana of the arctic and the jungle was "almost in tears" when she discovered that the quarantine officials at Folkestone would not admit her pet to London. The little antelope had to wait outside and come over to the United States without being presented at court.

At the Fleischmann home in Cincinnati the proudest possession is a floor rug made of the skin of a gigantic polar bear which Mrs. Fleischmann killed on her bridal tour. Taxidermists are now busy mounting the heads of jungle animals to add to the trophies of this remarkable young matron's prowess with the rifle.

Mrs. Fleischmann was Miss Sarah Hamilton Sherlock of Cincinnati. Her husband is a brother of Mark Twain's, named that city and is called a millionaire. Not a year has passed since the goal of their desires in life, having been attained, they have the money enough to fit out an expedition by land or sea and take his wife along in the best style possible under the circumstances.

Since returning to Cincinnati a short time ago Colonel Fleischmann has essayed another line of strenuous adventure. He went up to a lake, where Leo Stevens, the aeronaut, was dumped safely into the Ohio river when the gas bag ripped. Thus far Mrs. Fleischmann has not ventured up in a balloon.

RAPE FOR LIVE STOCK.

How to Obtain Best Results in Feeding This Plant.

In feeding rape to sheep it is a practice generally adopted to supply in a feeding box or trough a quantity of dry rape which the sheep will eat with the rape and this will help to prevent any bad effects from the so-called "oil." In turning sheep onto a rape crop they should not be allowed to roam over a large area at one time. It is a good plan to have a number of small enclosures so that as soon as the crop on one is eaten down the sheep can be removed to another and the one left be given a chance to recover. After a few weeks' rest the best in a clover will be grown up sufficiently for the sheep to be turned on again. Whereas, if the sheep are allowed to wander over a large area, they will destroy as much as they eat and the plants will not do so well if the plants are continually being nibbled at.

To obtain the best results from the plants the sheep should be removed when the plants have been eaten down to within two inches of the ground. A very good way to carry this out is to have a portable fence made which can be shifted as required. By this means the sheep can be given just as much of the crop as they can profitably consume, and the eaten crop left to make a fresh growth. Under these conditions the crop can be fed of three times during an ordinary season.

Good Feed For Pigs.

Rape also makes an excellent feed for pigs. They can be turned in to graze on it the same as sheep, and young pigs can be fed on a crop and kept in good condition until they are large enough to bring in and too up for market. When it is not convenient to turn the pigs on the crop, and it is not advisable to do so where sheep are likely to be on the same crop, a quantity can be cut and carried to the pigs every day. Pigs can be kept in good show condition and in good order for stud purposes on rape alone.

Rape in conjunction with other fodder is largely used for dairy cattle, but is particularly valuable for making a better food to make silage. When mixed with vetches, oats and rye it makes a highly nutritious and valuable silage. When fed to dairy cows in a green state it should be allowed to remain in the field for twenty-four hours after cutting, so as to allow it to wilt. When this is done it is not likely to ferment when it is fed in a fresh condition. It should always be fed to cows in a green state in the morning—not before the cows are milked.

Cattle should never be turned into a crop of rape or allowed to eat some large quantities of the plant makes the leaves have been well wilted in the sun, says U. R. Gilbert in Farm and Fireside, as it soon causes "bloat" or "blown," caused by the accumulation of gases in the stomach and if not treated in time this soon causes the death of the animal.

The Sow Is Important.

In feeding swine for market the whole structure must have as its foundation the brood sow. With proper methods here the pigs will have strong, bony pigs to begin with. By growing them on pasture as much as possible, they will remain strong and vigorous, and when the time comes for the final fattening on corn, he will have an animal with strong powers of digestion and assimilation, and capable of withstanding heavy forced feeding without developing any form of constitutional weakness.

THE HORSEMAN.

Every breeding animal requires exercise. This is especially true of the stallion.

When the mare is at work the colt should be kept in the barn or lot. It is better not to let it suckle until she has cooled off.

Watering the first thing in the morning and the last thing at night is a good practice.

If a horse is fidgety and nervous and lays back his ears while being harnessed, there is a reason for his conduct. It is more than likely that he has been frightened or abused by his former caretaker. Continual kindness will in most instances effect a cure.

Among the most important things in horse training is to cultivate a good disposition. It adds very much to the value and usefulness of a horse.

Does the collar fit perfectly? You know, a horse may be ruined by an ill fitting collar.

It matters little whether the horse is to be a trotter, a roadster or a draft horse, the treatment of the colt for the first year's feed is about the same. The best growth comes from the feed and care.

It is easier to keep a horse in shape than to make him well after he once succumbs to disease.

You can't burden a horse by making him endure hardship. The well bred, well kept horse is best.

Horses are classed as drafters when they weigh from 1,000 to 2,000 pounds; chunkies, 1,000 to 1,500; expressors, about the same; and roadsters, 1,000 to 1,500 pounds.

Do not let a horse get too fat. What does a horse that is too fat do in a few months?

However good the pasture, it will do little for a horse if he has a small ration of grain. Some good oats, but corn and clover produce good results. The expense will not compare with the increased in production of the colt.

It matters not how beautiful a horse may be, if he is unsound in his feet he's a poor investment.

If the horses gnaw the stalls, paint the wood with tar. Paint the rest of the stable with whitewash.

DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE PILLS.

What Mr. Bigler says of the splendid effects of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills in old age is particularly true, as the statement is backed up by his druggist, who knows that the results claimed were attained. Nor is Mr. Bigler alone in such a statement. Many others of both sexes well along in years write us to the same effect, their letters varying only in detail.

Mr. Bigler says: "Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are an excellent tonic to those to whom years bring nervous, shaky, trembling, feebleness—weakness and consequent inability to sleep. From the use of the box I purchased I got splendid results. The medicine made me steady, stronger and gave me restful sleep. This at my age is wonderful. It's the best nerve tonic I ever took." 50c a box at all dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Its Fire and its Girdle Cakes.

The Chequers Inn, Osmotherley, is a relic of the old coaching days, but it is now famed for its fire, which has never been out for more than 100 years and over which girdle cakes are baked. This huge fire is kept continually burning by peat or turf from the Yorkshire moors. An excellent tea is provided for visitors, the chief dainty being the girdle cakes. The peat glows like red embers on a red tiled floor, the girdle being suspended from a bar above, the whole looking most quaint and picturesque. The exterior of the inn is most unpretentious and old world looking, as it nestles alone on the Yorkshire wolds.—London Standard.

Agreed.

Justice Pickford, when a barrister, was once speaking before a couple of judges when a disagreement arose. After a long discussion on a point of law one of the judges said: "We repeat that the statement you make is not good law, and this court does not sit to expound the law to you, Mr. Pickford. We have neither the wish, the time"— "Nor the ability, your lordships," interjected the barrister. "Quite so; quite so. Now, as to paragraph 3."—London Tit-Bits.

Obstinate Parents.

"Reginald," said the head of the family, "I have told you again and again that you are not to pull the cat's tail." Reginald eyed him sadly. "You are getting very obstinate, father," he said reprovingly.—London Globe.

Amicable Adjustment.

"I want you distinctly to understand, Emil, that when your colleague's wife has a new hat I want one too."

"Calm yourself, my dear. We've settled it between us. You're neither of you going to get one."—Fliegende Blätter.

Wonderful Ability.

"I understand he is a man of great ability." "You bet he is. He can convince you that you are wrong in any argument without having to shake his finger in your face."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kihner's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kihner & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kihner's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

I will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my book on either dyspepsia, the heart or the kidneys. Troubles of the stomach, heart or kidneys, are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean stomach weakness, always. And the heart, and kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me today for sample and free book. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The Restorative is sold by all dealers.

An English physician says the muscular strength of the English man is decreasing while that of the woman is increasing. If this be true the suffragists may yet hurl the members of parliament into the street.

The Limit of Life.

The most eminent medical scientists are unanimous in the conclusion that the generally accepted limitation of human life is many years below the attainment possible with the advanced knowledge of which the race is now possessed. The critical period, that determines its duration, seems to be between 50 and 60; the proper care of the body during this decade cannot be too strongly urged; carelessness then being fatal to longevity. Nature's best helper after 50 is Electric Bitters, the scientific tonic medicine that revitalizes every organ of the body. Guaranteed by H. D. McCulloch Co. 50 cents.

Eczema.

For the good of those suffering with eczema or other such trouble, I wish to say, my wife had something of that kind and after using the doctors' remedies for some time concluded to try Chamberlain's Salve, and it proved to be better than anything she had tried. For sale by H. D. McCulloch Co.

IT IS SERIOUS

Some Stevens Point People Fail to Realize the Seriousness.

The constant aching of a bad back, The weariness, the tired feeling, The pains and aches of kidney ills Are serious—if neglected. Dangerous urinary troubles follow. A Stevens Point citizen shows you how to avoid them.

James R. Carpenter, Justice of the Peace, 406 Clark street, and residing at 211 Dixon street, Stevens Point, Wis., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills for pains across my back. Four boxes relieved me so that I had no further trouble from this cause, although I have at times taken a few doses when I thought my kidneys were sluggish. Before using this remedy I had a great deal of trouble with pains in my back. They are dull, heavy, bearing down and were accompanied by weakness through the loins. The ache was continuous and nothing I did seemed to have any effect. A friend of mine, having used Doan's Kidney Pills in his family, recommended them to me and advised me to give them a trial. I got a box at Taylor Bros. drug store and used them with the very best results. The first box gave me so much relief that I used several boxes, and as stated before, it gives me pleasure to add my name to the long list of friends of Doan's Kidney Pills, and I am pleased to advise their use by sufferers from kidney troubles, because I know they are a most efficient and effective remedy. I bear Doan's Kidney Pills favorably spoken of quite often. For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Mailed by Foster-McBarn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. PEOPLE OF THE DAY

Alabama's New Senator. John Hollity Bankhead, who succeeds the late John T. Morgan as United States senator from Alabama, has been in congress eighteen years. Last year he failed of re-election and declared himself a candidate for senator, winning at the primary election. Senator Bankhead is a native of Alabama and is sixty-five years old. He served four years in the Confederate army and was twice wounded, leaving the service with the rank of captain. During his career in congress he has served on many committees, his most important assignments being public buildings and rivers and harbors.

When Captain Richmond P. Hobson wanted to be retired from the navy so he could go into politics Bankhead discouraged the navy department, and Hobson's application was rejected. Then Hobson resigned and went after Bankhead's scalp. They had a stumping canvass, in which the youthful hero put it all over the hero of 1861.

So Bankhead by defeating Hobson's retirement elected Hobson to congress and Hobson by defeating Bankhead for the house landed him in the senate.

Here is an interesting picture of Richard Croker and his home near Dublin: "The house itself is a dream of opulent beauty, for it has been newly recreated by an American with an American love for comfortable and luxurious interiors. This man with the knickerbockers, the white short beard, the tranquil and impassive face and the soft and almost cooing voice, who says very little, but listens with untiring courtesy to everybody else, is no other than he who was once known as Boss Croker. Every visitor to Mr. Croker has to visit the stables, and there you will see some of the horses which have already won great prizes and are expected to win more. This white bearded man, with the tranquil air, the gentle voice and the soft manner, has yet in the stern lines of his face in repose, in the firm, tight mouth, in the powerful jaw and in the clear, strong blue eyes, as in the well knit, short, strong frame, ample outward evidences of the will of iron which was able to dominate so potent a community as New York and to be for years the dictator of its policy, its officials and its administration."

A Noted Detective.

James McFarland, the detective who wrung from Harry Orchard the story of the murder of former Governor Steunenberg of Idaho and a score of other killings, has achieved remarkable success in his chosen line of work. Born in Ireland sixty-three years ago, McFarland came to this country in 1863. Nine years later he secured a job with the Pinkertons in Chicago. Since then he has made history.

For many years prior to the advent of McFarland the Molly Maguires kept the anthracite regions of Pennsylvania in a state of terror. Murders were of frequent occurrence, and railway and mine officials were in daily peril. In 1873 McFarland was commissioned to put the Molly Maguires out of business. This he did most effectively. For three years he labored in constant danger, and the end came in 1876. McFarland went on the stand and gave testimony that sent eleven murderers to the gallows and about forty others to prison. That ended the Molly Maguires. For a long time McFarland was lost sight of. Twelve years ago McFarland appeared in Denver, apparently broken down in health, but his ears were open and his mind as alert as ever. His work in trailing Orchard and extracting the awful confession of twenty-six murders is a matter of present day record.

STATE'S ROAD WORK.

Connecticut Will Build Trunk Roads on a Uniform Plan.

Even a year ago the proposition to bond the state of Connecticut for $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 in order to build good roads would have been regarded as visionary. While the automobilists would have been glad of the roads which would result from such a course, it is doubtful if even they would have looked upon such a plan as other than a little too ambitious to go through, and the farmers wouldn't have considered it for a moment. Now the situation has so changed that the farmers are actually asking the committee to report a good sized bond issue to be available for improved roadways at about a million a year, writes a New Haven correspondent of the Boston Transcript.

Connecticut has done much toward acquiring good roads as a state, and yet it is the fact that the state has no system of good roads today worthy the name, and while there are stretches of road in different sections which have been well built and built to last in a general way the expenditure of money does not show.

The basis of the new plan which seems likely to receive the support of the general assembly consists in the state's taking over absolutely all trunk roads. The state will be entirely responsible for these roads, and with an appropriation of a million a year it won't be long before Connecticut will have a state wide network of first class roads. Certain concessions in the matter of choosing the road to be improved will be made to the local authorities, but it must be a trunk road.

The state will go into the road-making business on a large scale, will have its own trap rock quarries or take the entire output of private quarries, will have its own stone crushers and all the other necessities for successful roadmaking, will employ its own foremen and inspectors and will go at the whole business on a uniform plan. Not the least of the benefits of the scheme will be the fact that the towns will have their own road appropriations intact to spend on roads leading to the trunk lines improved by the state. It is proposed to bring the highway commissioner into even closer touch with the automobilists by giving him an auto in which to travel from town to town overseeing the road building. And, incidentally, all the taxes on autos coming to the state will be spent on good roads, in addition to the proceeds from the bond issue.

Plan of Farmers to Build Roads.

A number of prominent farmers of Charlestown township, in Clark county, have originated a plan for the building of free gravel roads proposed in that township, says a Jeffersonville (Ind.) correspondent of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. The bids submitted for the work were so high that the farmers decided to have the work done under their own supervision, thus being assured that it would be done satisfactorily, and save to themselves the profit that ordinarily goes to the contractor. Should this plan work out successfully, as it is believed it will, the residents of other townships in Clark county will adopt it. As far as is known at Jeffersonville, this will be the first time such a plan was ever tried in Indiana.

Need of Better Country Roads.

At a meeting of the chamber of commerce, Jamestown, N. Y., Luis Jackson, industrial commissioner of the Erie railroad, recently spoke of the great physical improvements in every line of industry and referred particularly to the cost of hauling crops by teams from farms to railroad stations. Mr. Jackson gave facts and figures along this line secured from data published by the department of agriculture, by which he showed that the average cost of team haul on twenty-three different kinds of agricultural products was 11 cents per 100 pounds, and the average cost per ton mile 23 cents. These figures he thought emphasized the necessity for better roads.

Rural Delivery Notes

Rural Mail Carrier B. S. Johns of Lorain, O., carrier on route No. 1 west, has received a powerful motorcycle for use on his route, says the Columbus Dispatch. It is said that Johns is the first to use a motorcycle in the delivery of mail on country routes, and if the experiment proves a success, carriers all over Ohio may take up the idea, as it is much cheaper than to use a horse, after the first cost. Johns has some of the roughest roads in the Lorain section to cover and his route extends some twenty-five miles. In a test run he covered the territory and delivered his usual amount of mail matter in an hour's less time than formerly. He expects to cut this down a half hour more when he becomes thoroughly familiar with his machine.

The rural mail service has developed into a regular matrimonial bureau, according to a Washington dispatch to the St. Paul Pioneer Press. It is estimated that more than 100 rural carriers are married weekly, and in 90 per cent of the cases the contracting parties are brought together on the rural routes.

Raise, Ida, now claims the distinction of employing more women rural carriers than any other postoffice, three out of four routes from that city being served by women. Miss Mollie Stewart, who delivers route No. 2, is said to be the champion branch rider of the northwest. The postmaster at Raise is enthusiastic over the work of the women carriers, who, he says, are very particular and faithful and popular with the patrons.

HAD AWFUL TIME.

But Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy Cured Him.

It is with pleasure that I give you this unsolicited testimonial. About one year ago when I had a severe case of the measles I got caught out in a hard rain and the measles settled in my stomach and bowels. I had an awful time and had it not been for the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy I could not have possibly lived but a few days longer, but thanks to this remedy I am now strong and well. I have written the above through simple gratitude and I shall always speak a good word for this remedy.—Sam. H. Gwin, Concord, Ga. For sale by H. D. McCulloch Co.

HINTS FOR FARMERS

Care of Sheep in Summer.

In summer give your lambs and sheep the best green pasture possible and as wide a range as you can furnish. Summer is a critical period in the lives of the young sheep, and they must be closely watched and protected, especially against disease, poison and dogs.

See that they have good grass and guard as much as possible against poisonous weeds, though the latter protection could hardly be expected to be complete. Sheep do not often die from the effects of poisonous weeds, but it would be well to look over their pasture for such or for unknown weeds that might prove injurious.

This, however, is a small matter compared to the all important question of a pure water supply. To impure or tainted water are perhaps more losses from disease than any other one cause.

Remedy For Horse Flies.

During the summer months cattle are often observed fighting vainly against a perfect cloud of flies that seem to be endowed with a peculiar intelligence. They seem to have gauged the exact scope of the sweeping tail and do not come within its range. In stead they attack the head and shoulders, writes an Iowa farmer in Farm Progress. The following is a rather old fashioned remedy, but it has stood the test of time, than which no better recommendation could be given:

Crude cottonseed oil or fish oil and pine tar mixed, about two parts of the former to one of the latter. The two mix readily and are very easily applied to the animals at milking time by means of a large paint brush. Applied in this manner it takes but half a minute to a cow, making the cost of the application but a small matter.

Watering Horses.

No animal will drink too much if watered sufficiently often; hence there is no necessity for limiting the supply except when the animal has been deprived of water for too long a time.

Horses at rest should be given water at least three times a day in summer and twice a day in winter if they cannot have free access to it at all times. Working animals should be watered more frequently and in warm weather five times daily. There is a common idea that horses should not be watered when warm. An animal is never too warm to be watered if not more than two gallons be given. This fact will be well worth remembering. A large quantity of water will injure an animal at any time, but especially is this so when he is very warm or quite fatigued. Missouri Experiment Station.

MARSHFIELD WAS EASY

Stevens Point Defeats Neighboring Team in a Score of 6 to 2 Small Crowd and Lack of Enthusiasm.

There was a small crowd at the fair ground last Sunday afternoon, the smallest crowd to attend a game of base ball in which the local team took part this season, and the contest thru-out lacked enthusiasm, both as to the spectators, as well as with the players. Still there were a number of good plays on both sides, Moran, Joe Quinn and Weber each making a two base hit, while base stealing of Lang was a feature, but in which undertaking both Schriener and Garlie fell down and were put out. But one error is credited to the Stevens Point side, Ditzler, on first base, failing to secure the ball in time to put out the runner. The Marshfield team has four errors chalked up against it. Of the six scores made by the locals, two are credited to Lang, who redeemed himself for any errors he may have made in the past.

The day appeared to be an off one for Garlie, who spent a part of the past week at Wausau, going up to see the Barnum-Bailey elephant, and his good right seemed to have a tendency not to abide by his bidding. However, he struck out four men, while Troch, for Marshfield, struck out three. A summary of the result is as follows:

Siebert, 2b	0 0 0	Revoyer, 2b	0 1 1
Schriener, ss	1 1 0	Quinn, Chas.	0 2 2
Ditzler, 1b	1 2 1	Nelson, Chas.	0 0 0
Lang, c	0 1 0	Quinn, Joe	1 0 0
Garlie, p	1 1 0	Nelson, Chas.	0 1 0
Chapman, cf	0 1 0	Troch, p	0 0 0
Lange, rf	2 4 0	Weber, rf	0 0 0
Moran, lf	1 2 0	Kabsch, lf	0 0 0
Holman, 3b	0 1 0	Wendt, cf	1 1 1
Totals	6 17 1	Totals	2 5 1

Earned runs, Stevens Point 3, Marshfield 1. Two-base hits, Moran, Quinn, Weber. Stolen bases, Lang. Struck out, Garlie, Troch, 3. Umpire, Grant.

CALIFORNIA MONEY.

Queer Early Coinage—D. O. Mills Issued First Paper Money.

Coins in California till the fall of 1856 were a queer kettle of fish. More than 60 per cent of the silver and at least 25 per cent of the gold were foreign.

Most of the other gold coins were private coins. Moffit & Co. got a permit from the government to coin gold. Their coinage was stamped "Moffit & Co."

We had all kinds of doubloons and smaller South and Central American coins. Of the smaller gold coins the French twenty franc piece led all the others.

The English guinea was fairly represented. But it passed for only its face value, while the other gold passed for more. The twenty franc piece, value $3.75, went at $4.

There was a still greater discrepancy in the silver coins. A one franc piece went for 25 cents, and the East India rupee, value 45 cents, went for 50 cents; the five franc piece, $1. The French silver represented about 60 per cent of the silver circulation.

German silver thalers, worth 60 cents, went at $1. Everything above 50 cents was $1, and everything above 25 cents was 50 cents. A French bank in San Francisco was said to have got rich shipping French coin in exchange for gold dust. United States coin was scarcer until the mint was established.

In the fall of 1856 the banks refused to take any foreign coins except at a heavy discount. The result was that in a few months all foreign coin disappeared. It proved a bonanza for the saloon people. They would still give a drink for a franc, while the banks gave only 12½ cents. The saloon people gathered them and the rupees in at old prices and sold to the banks for bullion and made a good thing.

But for a few years we suffered badly for silver change. Even until 1856 gold dust circulated to a considerable extent in mining districts, but the scales were always used.

There was no paper money until D. O. Mills & Co. issued their gold notes about 1858. In getting change for an old octagon $50 gold, often as many as four or five nationalities would be represented in the change. On all drafts sent east $3 was charged by the express companies until Adams & Co. and Page, Bacon & Co. failed and left the field to Wells-Fargo; then it was raised to $5.

Greenbacks were never recognized as money, only as a commodity. They were used for buying postage and revenue stamps. All mercantile billheads and notes had the special contract enforcement for gold. California even paid the claims of the federal government in gold. And it came in mighty handy to Uncle Sam in 1862 and 1863. The old style Californian still has an inclination for the yellow stuff.—P. E. Magazine.

A SILLY TRAGEDY.

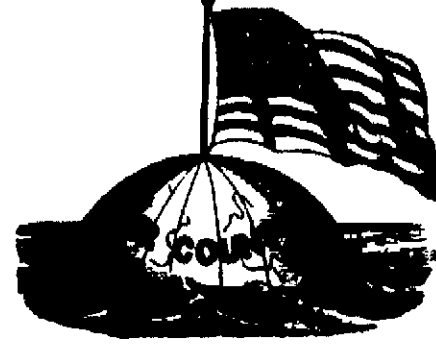

The Duel Between Tom Porter and Sir Henry Bellasis.

Some of the royalists who were forced to endure the English commonwealth seemed to console themselves for the dullness of life under a Puritan government by fighting as many duels as they could compass, so that ignoble squabbles and foolish plots make up the history of their days.

Tom Porter was of a family which had zealously served the king. Under the new government his occupation was gone, and he descended to a triviality of life which finally involved him in a most pathetic event. This was a duel which he fought with his friend, Sir Henry Bellasis, and which, says Peppy in his "Diary," is worth remembering for "the silliness of the quarrel,  a kind of emblem of the general complexion of the whole kingdom."

But, silly as the quarrel undoubtedly was, it carried in it an element of heart-break.

The two young men involved were intimate friends

Four persons were killed and ten others were seriously hurt when the boiler of an engine attached to a fast Illinois Central fruit train exploded near Milan, Tenn.

RECEIVES BIG BONUS.

CHICAGOAN GETS $340,000 FOR ONE YEAR'S WORK.

Wm. V. Kelley, President of the American Steel Foundries Company, Places Concern on a Strong Financial Basis.

Chicago.—From a clerk in his father's hardware store at Greenville, Ohio, to one of the highest paid men in the world is the career of William Vallandigham Kelley, of Chicago.

Mr. Kelley, who will receive $340,000 for a year's work, is president of the American Steel Foundries company, which he has placed on a sound and paying financial basis in the two years he has occupied the chief executive office.

In a dispatch from New York it was stated that a contest has been started in Wall street to compel the directors of the American Steel Foundries company to pay a dividend on the preferred stock. It was through this contest that the amount of Mr. Kelley's earnings became known.

In going over the financial affairs of the concern it developed that the company will make a distribution of more than $800,000 in bonuses to four officials, including Mr. Kelley, whose bonus will be $320,000, in addition to his salary of $200,000 as president.

The other three officials who each will receive a bonus ranging from $165,000 to $170,000 in addition to his salary for the fiscal year are First Vice President Robert P. Lamont, Chicago; Second Vice President W. W. Butler, New York, and Third Vice President George E. Scott, Chicago.

The disclosures came as a result of the discovery of a contract made two years ago by the directors of the company with Mr. Kelley and his associates when the directors were looking for an active man to take the presidency. Mr. Kelley formerly was first vice president.

It is asserted by those familiar with the affairs of the concern that Mr. Kelley stepped into the breach when the company was in a bad financial way and brought it out of a deficit of $750,000 to the present sound financial footing guaranteed by $2,500,000 net earnings for one year.

Mr. Kelley was born at Greenville, Ohio, 44 years ago. While attending school he assisted his father in the hardware store. It was while working in the hardware store that young Kelley conceived the idea of entering the railroad equipment business. He came to Chicago nearly 20 years ago and entered the service of the Charles Scott Spring company. It was not long before his salary was $5,000 a year.

Later he started a plant of his own at Hammond, Ind., which he sold out to the American Steel Foundries company and accepted an executive position with that concern. Since then his rise has been rapid.

Besides being president of the American Steel Foundries company, Mr. Kelley is president of a steel car and railroad equipment concern at Montreal, Canada. The plant of this concern occupies 40 acres and is one of the largest industrial enterprises in the dominion.

Mr. Kelley was married in Chicago 12 years ago to Miss Lillian Phelps and they live at 4849 Ellis avenue. They have three sons, William V., Jr., Russell Phelps, and Phelps Kelley.

Mr. Kelley is fond of playing golf and is an enthusiastic motorist. He is a member of the Midlothian, Exmoor, Glen View, South Shore Country, the Chicago, Union League, Kenwood, and Kenwood Country clubs, and several leading New York clubs.

MONUMENT OF POPE LEO XIII.

Erected in Rome by Cardinals Created by Him.

Rome.—The monument of Pope Leo XIII., erected in the Basilica of St. John Lateran at the expense of the cardinals created during his pontificate.

Monument to Late Pope Leo.

cate, "ab eo creati," is the work of the Roman sculptor, Prof. Giulio Tadolin.

It is situated in a niche in the left transept over the door leading to the sacristy. The figure of the pontiff is in a standing attitude, just rising from the sedia gestatoria, in the act of blessing. The pope's right arm is raised on high, while with his left hand, he leans heavily on the chair.

The two lateral figures in white marble represent a pilgrim workman and the Church. The latter is symbolized by a woman bowed down in grief. Her right arm flung across the sarcophagus is meant to express sorrow at the pope's death, while the cross in her left hand represents Christianity.

The figure of the Church rests her foot on the terrestrial globe. The inscription underneath reads as follows: "Ecclesia ingenuit complante orbe universo."

The figure of the pilgrim is shown in a laborer's blouse. He holds a pair of rosary beads in his right hand and on his knees implodes the pope's blessing. The following is the inscription: "Ad patrem filii ex omni regione veniunt convenient."

The center of the monument consists of a sarcophagus of verd antique or green porphyry with decorations in gilt bronze and the plain inscription

"Leo XIII." The entire monument rests on a sober architrave of granite adorned with the pontiff's coat of arms and two festoons in bronze that run across the whole front.

HOME-MADE CURFEW.

Guaranteed to Cure the Worst Case of Street Loafing.

Every family should have a curfew which should positively "ring to-night," and every night if needed. These curfews are inexpensive and can be homemade.

Take a piece of siding two feet long and whittle one end down to a handle; then take the child that needs the curfew and bend him over a barrel. Now take the piece of siding in the hand and use it for a clapper.

Put it on hot. Divide the strokes evenly and see that none miss. Good for a boy or girl up to the age of 16, and applications are warranted to cure the most pronounced case of street loafing that exists.

The music this curfew makes is finer than singing "Where Is My Wandering Boy To-Night?"—Popular Mechanics.

"USEFUL CITIZEN" TO WED.

Jacob Riis and Bride Will Spend Honeymoon in Woods.

New York.—Jacob Riis who according to President Roosevelt, is "New York's most useful citizen," and Miss Mary Phillips, the St. Louis girl he is to marry soon, expect to spend the first few weeks of their honeymoon "roughing it" in the woods. Miss Phillips, who was Mr. Riis' private secretary, declares that in her estimation no honeymoon could be more ideal than the one she and Mr. Riis have planned. The two are now on an outing in Massachusetts under the chaperonage of Miss Phillips' mother.

OIL TRUST IS SCORED.

SECOND REPORT ON OPERATIONS OF STANDARD OIL COMPANY.

IT HAS RAISED PRICES

Enormous Profits Acquired by Unfair and Unjustifiable Means, Says Commissioner of Corporations Herbert K. Smith.

Washington.—Significant revelations were made public Sunday in a report submitted to President Roosevelt by Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, concerning the operations of the Standard Oil company.

In a previous report the means and methods of the Standard were explained. The present report sets forth the results of those methods and the effect they have had on the consumer of oil and on the profits of the Standard oil company. It deals with profits and prices, showing just how the manipulation of the oil industry by the Standard has affected the pocket-books of the American people.

Commissioner Smith says: "The Standard Oil company is responsible for the course of prices of petroleum and its products during the last 25 years. The Standard has consistently used its power to raise the price of oil during the last ten years, not only absolutely, but also relatively to the cost of crude oil."

The increase in annual profits of the Standard from 1896 to 1904 was over $27,000,000. The report says:

"The total dividends paid by the Standard from 1882 to 1906 were $551,922,904, averaging thus 24.15 per cent. per year. The dividends, however, were much less than the total earnings. It is substantially certain that the entire net earnings of the Standard from 1882 to 1906 were at least $790,000,000, and possibly much more."

"These enormous profits have been based on an investment worth at the time of its original acquisition not more than $75,000,000."

In his letter to President Roosevelt, transmitting the report, Commissioner Smith says:

"The following facts are proven: The Standard has not reduced margins during the period in which it has been responsible for the prices of oil. During the last eight years covered by this report (1898 to 1905) it has raised both prices and margins. Its domination has not been acquired or maintained by its superior efficiency, but rather by unfair competition and by methods economically and morally unjustifiable."

ANOTHER WOMAN ATTACKED.

New York Crimes Continued—Two Men Beaten by Mobs.

New York.—Another murderous assault was added Sunday night to the police record of recent crimes against defenseless women and girls. Sunday's victim was Miss Ellen Bulger, a woman of middle age, who was attacked in her apartments in the Bronx, cruelly beaten and left in a helpless state. Her assailant escaped.

Just before Miss Bulger was assaulted, George Kestner, a Russian, charged with attempted assault upon an eight-year-old girl, was set upon by a crowd of men and all but killed. The clothes were torn from his body and he was taken to a station house wrapped in a blanket.

Another mob set upon Hylo Saloda, an Italian palmist, who was similarly accused, and only the timely intervention of police reserves saved him from summary punishment.

TROLLEY SMASHES MOTOR CAR.

Three Well Known Young New Yorkers Terribly Injured.

New York.—Three well known young men were frightfully, if not fatally, injured Sunday when their automobile was struck by a surface car, and after being shoved along for a distance of 30 feet, was smashed to fragments against an elevated railroad pillar.

The victims are Swift Tarbell, son of Gage E. Tarbell, who was formerly a vice president of the Equitable Life Assurance society; Edward L. Woodson and William Catchings.

Forty Passengers Drowned.

Angers, France.—Forty passengers in a third class railroad car and the engineer of the train were drowned Sunday afternoon in a railroad accident three miles southeast of this town. The locomotive of a crowded local train jumped the track when entering the bridge over the river Loire at Les Ponts-de-Ce. The stone railing gave way and the engine plunged into the river 50 feet below, dragging down with it its tender and the baggage and third class car. Fortunately no other cars went into the water.

FEATURES OF THE DECISION.

The man who thus deliberately violates this law wounds society more deeply than does he who counterfeits the coin or steals letters from the mail.

The only way for them (rivals of the Standard Oil company) to stay in the oil business would be for them to adopt the practice of this defendant and procure the great public power of railway companies to be secretly perverted in their interest. Under no other possible theory could they hope to survive.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER.
(Head of Oil Trust Hit by Fine of $29,240,000.)

It is the substance of the thing, and not the mere form, with which the law is concerned. The defendant here is in precisely the same position it would occupy if it had paid the Alton company at the unlawful rate each time a car was shipped.

Waiving the question of the studied insolence of this language (regarding the "mob"), in so far as it may be aimed at the present occupant of the bench, the court can, of course, only leave to the discretion of the Standard Oil company the wisdom and propriety of a $103,000,000 corporation gratuitously inaugurating agitation about the "mob."

The court is not impressed by the doleful predictions of counsel for the defense as to the hardships upon the honest shipping public to be anticipated from the enforcement of this rule. The honest man who renders a commodity for transportation by a railway company will not be fraudulently misled by that company in allowing it to have his property for less than the law authorizes it to collect.

The conception and execution of such a commercial policy necessarily involves the contamination of subordinate officers or employees, even looking to the time when testimony will be required in the protection of the revenues of the offender for the execution of the law for its violation.

Under the order, no protest upon by the defendant the railway company might give the Standard Oil company a low transportation rate and by contract obligate itself to withhold the same rate from the very man the taking of whose property by condemnation rendered possible the construction of the road. A more abhorrent heresy could not be conceived.

It is the defendant's position that its offense was wholly technical, that nobody has been injured because there was no other shipper of oil and that, therefore the punishment, if any, should be a modest fine. * * * It is novel, indeed, for a convicted defendant to urge the complete triumph of a dishonest course as a reason why such course should go unpunished.

The nominal defendant is the Standard Oil company of Indiana, a million dollar corporation. The Standard Oil company of New Jersey, whose capital is $100,000,000 is the real defendant.

Where the only possible motive of the crime is the enhancement of dividends and the only punishment authorized is a fine great caution must be exercised by the court lest the fixing of a small amount encourage the defendant to future violations by esteeming the penalty to be in the nature of a license.

For the law to take from one of its corporate creatures as a penalty for the commission of a dividend producing crime less than one-third of its net revenues accrued during the period of violation falls far short of the imposition of an excessive fine, and surely to do this would not be the exercise of as much real power as is employed when a sentence is imposed taking from a human being one day of his liberty.

The court is obliged to confess that it is unable to indulge the presumption that in this case the defendant was convicted of its virgin offense.

Chicago.—The Standard Oil company Saturday received the most terrific blow in its history, and simultaneously was served with notice that more serious trouble was in store for it.

Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, in the United States district court, fined the company $29,240,000, the extreme limit of the penalty fixed for the acceptance of illegal rebates under the conviction of last April. This fine is by far the largest ever assessed in any case in the history of jurisprudence. It was accompanied by a scathing criticism of the oil trust's methods.

Then the judge instantly called for a special grand jury for August 14 to follow up the same violations of law from the standpoint of conspiracy between the Standard Oil, the Alton road and the head officials of both. This charge, if proved, may land some of the railroad and oil officers in jail.

Will Contest the Decision.
The trust's lawyers served notice that the infliction of the fine will be contested to the court of last resort. This means two steps: An appeal to the circuit court of appeals and thence to the federal supreme court.

The judge gave the defendants 60 days in which to file a bill of exceptions. This was after three formal and quite "hopeless" motions had been made by Attorney Merritt Starr, representing the defense as senior counsel, during the absence of John S. Miller, who is in Europe.

One motion was to set aside the court's judgment, and another an arrest of judgment, and a third to vacate the judgment, setting up the grounds that the court's action was in violation of section 8 of the federal constitution, which is directed against the imposition of excessive fines.

"Overruled," said the judge, quickly. "Let's go on with the next case."

Mr. Starr then secured the 60 day stay of execution in accordance with an agreement between the prosecuting and defending counsel, in which the bill of exceptions will be filed.

Call It an Injustice.

The character of the appeal to the higher courts was indicated by a later statement by an official of the corporation in New York, who said "the amount of the fines evidenced the injustice against the company."

"The amount of Judge Landis' fines," said this official automatically for the company, "is 50 times the value of the oil carried under the indictment. Total value of the oil was $570,000. For each car of oil valued at about $450, we have been fined $20,000. An appeal will be taken to the United States circuit court of appeals and carried to the court of last resort, but whether it will be entered at once or whether the full time allowed used statutes of the United States. The punishment for conviction of this offense is a fine of $10,000, or sentence imposed by law will be taken will be determined by our counsel."

The case upon which the judge assessed the huge fine was brought upon indictments containing 1,162 counts, charging the acceptance of rebates amounting to $223,000 from the Chicago & Alton railroad on shipments of 6,000 cars of oil from Whiting, Ind., to East St. Louis. The law gave the court the power to impose the maximum fine of $20,000 on each count. The minimum fine provided is $1,000.

Jail Also May Be in Sight.

The surprising finale of the day came when the judge issued his call for a special grand jury and directed District Attorney Sims to proceed at once against the Alton railroad and to direct an investigation of the individuals—Standard Oil and Alton officials—who were parties to the scheme by which the Standard Oil company of Indiana secured the transportation of its products at less than one-third the legal rate.

The charge to be made against these men is conspiracy to violate a federal law, known as section 5440 of the revised statutes of the United States.

Rebates Passed on by Davis.

Should this investigation reveal all that is expected, Charles H. Davis will be one of the men most earnestly sought by the government. As auditor of the Chicago & Alton he passed on the Standard Oil rebate scheme and manipulated the books in an effort to hide it. When the investigation of the Standard Oil relations with the Alton were commenced Davis resigned his position and left, his present whereabouts being still unknown despite every effort made to discover him during the trial.

While there is a possibility that some of the men mentioned may escape indictment at the hands of this new grand jury, which will be called to meet August 14, there is no hope for the railroad company. The evidence used to indict and convict the Standard Oil company will do the same service for the Chicago & Alton.

Some Unpleasant Comparisons.

In his utterances against the oil company preliminary to assessing the great fine, and also preliminary to the calling of the other grand jury, Judge Landis clearly expressed his belief

FEDERAL JUDGE KENESAW M. LANDIS.

Jurist who Imposed a Fine of $29,240,000 on the Standard Oil Company.

of two years in the penitentiary, or both.

Men in Danger of Indictments.

The men who may be deemed to be in danger of such indictment are:

Standard Oil Officials:

J. A. Moffett, president of the Standard Oil company of Indiana.

W. P. Cowan, vice president of the Standard Oil company of Indiana.

H. E. Felton, president Union Tank Line company and traffic manager for the Standard Oil company of New Jersey.

E. Bogardus, traffic manager for the Standard Oil company of Indiana.

Chicago & Alton Officials:

S. M. Felton, president Chicago & Alton Railroad company.

Joseph W. Elabon, traffic manager for Chicago & Alton.

Charles A. King, general freight agent for the Chicago & Alton.

Charles H. Davis, former auditor for the Chicago & Alton.

Accepts Concession Knowingly.

All of these men knew or may be presumed to have known of the secret arrangement by which the Standard Oil products were shipped from Whiting to East St. Louis for six cents a hundred pounds, when the legal tariff was 18 cents. There were others who knew of it, but they escape possible indictment through having testified at the Standard Oil trial. Forardis was a witness, but since he was not summoned by the government, but testified in his own behalf, he did not secure immunity. H. E. Felton was also that the Standard Oil company was no better than a common thief.

"The men who deliberately violate this law," said he, "wound society more deeply than he who counterfeits coin or steals letters from the mail."

Referring to the reply by the defendant's attorney to his proposition that they produce evidence that they had not been guilty of previous offenses, the judge took occasion to rebuke them for what he termed their gratuitous agitation about "the mob."

Said he, after quoting from the answer of the attorneys in which they recommended that the court pay "no attention to the gossip of the street or the charges of the mob":

"Waiving the question of the studied insolence of this language, in so far as it may be aimed at the present occupant of the bench, the court can, of course, only leave to the discretion of the Standard Oil company the wisdom and propriety of a hundred million dollar corporation's gratuitous inaugurating agitation about the 'mob.'"

In scoring the corporation's plea that it had a right to enter into private contracts, the judge said:

"Under the doctrine insisted upon by the defendant, the railway company might give the Standard Oil company a low transportation rate and by contract obligate itself to withhold the same rate from the man the taking of whose property by condemnation rendered possible the construction of the road. A more abhorrent heresy could not be conceived."

Two Railroad Bills Killed.

Montgomery, Ala.—A bill being killed in the senate the Sunday freight train bill and the measure to provide for recovery of corporations whose franchises might be revoked two administration measures are lost. The plan to stop Sunday freight trains contained giving power to the railroad commission to put the act in force when it was thought advisable. This was regarded as promising too much severity for the railroads, and even those desiring abolition of Sunday trains voted against it.

Eddy Suit Report May Be False.

Concord, N. H.—The attorneys for the "next friend" in the suit against Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy and others said Sunday they knew nothing of the report from Deadwood, S. D., that George W. Glover, son of Mrs. Eddy and one of the plaintiffs in the suit, had received a communication from his mother through a Miss Thompson, of Boston, and had started east, possibly to withdraw from the suit. It is understood that Mr. Glover and his daughter are on their way east to testify in the action.

MONDAY—WASH. DAY.

Recognized as Such Over Almost All the World.

Why does nearly all the civilized world wash clothes on Monday? What has Monday to do with washing? It was originally the moon's day and was sacred to the queen of night. I read in a schoolboy's history that the Pilgrims landed on Monday and the good women immediately set about washing the clothes that had been soiled on the trip over. We might judge from that alleged fact that no washing was done aboard ship; yet the finest place for such necessary work of sanitation and blessedness is out at sea where there is plenty of water and nearly always a drying wind.

The voyage of the little Mayflower lasted 63 days, I believe, and as nearly as we can now reckon the landing was made at Plymouth Rock on a Monday, though some historians insist on Friday. It must have been a vile and filthy vessel on arrival, with 102 passengers and crew going over two months without washing their linen. Linen? What did they wear in 1620? Can you realize how big was the Mayflower? A miserable little bark of 160 tons (Capt. John Smith) or 180 tons (according to Bradford).

THE NEW YORK LIFE'S PROGRAM.

Economy, Publicity and the Paramount Interest of Policyholders.

President Kingsley, of the New York Life Insurance Company, says, in an address to the policyholders, that his plan of administration involves these points:

"First: Strict economy; second, the widest, fairest and fullest publicity; third, the continuance of the New York Life as a world-wide institution; fourth, such an amount of new business under the law as we can secure while practicing intelligent economy, and enforcing the idea that the interest of the policy-holder is paramount."

The Advantage of Reading.

"Beg pardon, sir," said the weary hobo as he stood at the farmhouse door, "but might I sleep in your barn to-night? I haven't had a roof over my head for ten days."

"I congratulate you," said the kindly farmer. "That is a splendid thing. I have just read in one of my ten-cent magazines that it is not too much to say that to the delicate, highly-strung, easily-knocked-up individual the advantages of sleeping in the open air are enormous. Pallid cheeks take on a ruddy hue, colds are unknown, nerves are forgotten, and irritability becomes a phase of the past. A small plot and a little perseverance are the only necessities and the result is assured. You are very welcome to the use of my potato patch, and my sky is at your disposal."—Judge.

All in Cold Storage.

An Oregon attorney, representing a client whose title to a certain cold storage plant was under fire, closed an able argument before the Oregon supreme court recently with the following bit of pathos: "Your honor, there is more resting upon your decision than this cold storage plant: a human life is at stake. My client's life's efforts are in this cold storage; his life's blood is in this cold storage; his body and soul are wrapped up in this cold storage."—Law Notes.

The Sad Sea.

The thin, pale man in the large bathing suit, standing knee-deep in the water, sighed.

"Why," we asked, "are you so sad?" "Alas," he answered, "the sea is the grave of my first wife."

Our lips curled superciliously. "But you married again," we murmured.

"Yes," said he, "and my second wife won't go near the water."

SOAKED IN COFFEE

Until Too Stiff to Bend Over.

"When I drank coffee I often had sick headaches, nervousness and biliousness much of the time, but when I went to visit a friend I got in the habit of drinking Postum."

"I gave up coffee entirely and the result has been that I have been entirely relieved of all my stomach and nervous trouble."

"My mother was just the same way. We all drink Postum now, and without coffee in the house for 2 years, we are all well."

"A neighbor of mine, a great coffee drinker, was troubled with pains in her side for years and was an invalid. She was not able to do her work and could not even mend clothes or do anything at all where she would have to bend forward. If she tried to do a little hard work she would get such pains that she would have to lie down for the rest of the day."

"At last I persuaded her to stop drinking coffee and try Postum Food Coffee and she did so and has used Postum ever since; the result has been that she can now do her work, can sit for a whole day and mend and can sew on the machine and she never feels the least bit of pain in her side, in fact, she has got well and it shows coffee was the cause of the whole trouble."

"I could also tell you about several other neighbors who have been cured by quitting coffee and using Postum in its place." "There's a Reason." Look in pkg. for the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

Maine Potato Crop in Peril.

Bangor, Me.—The great potato crop of Aroostook county, estimated this season at 15,000,000 bushels, is menaced by the continual wet weather. A 40 per cent land planted this year is about 100 acres larger than last year. It has been estimated the harvest will not equal last year's record crop of about 2,500,000 bushels. As Aroostook county is the largest potato growing district in the world, the condition of the crop there is one of the greatest factors in determining the market price.
